IMMIGRATION - STILL A PROBLEM A PROBLEM GETTING WORSE.

As the sad spectacle of modern Britain looks towards entering the new century, the situation for the White, native British could not be worse. Since 1948 a steady flow of non-European and non-White peoples have entered this country both 'legally' and illegally changing the face and nature of Britain forever. In the 1950's and 1960's, "coloured immigration" as it was then called was a hot political issue. The Notting Hill and Nottingham race riots of the mid-1950's; the anti-immigration campaigns of Colin Jordan and the "Rivers of Blood" speech by Enoch Powell in the 1960's; in the 1970's the campaigns by the National Front; all were expressions of resistance by the British people to the imposition of a multi-racial society which the ordinary British did not want. The devious propaganda and draconian anti-discrimination legislation of successive governments in the 1970's and 1980's has forced the British to swallow the poison pill of multi-racialism and multiculturalism. Although badly poisoned Britain and British culture is not yet dead, it can still fight back to recovery if the British people have the will and the sense of race and nation to fight back against the system which is destroying them. This issue of Broadsword brings its focus on the latest waves of immigrants, the so-called refugees and asylum seekers who will totally destabilise the civic resources of greater London by the Millennium if the current level of in-comers continues. Current figures from the Association of London Government, representing many councils in central London and the greater London area, shows how damaging this influx is to the tax-payer. Hillingdon Council alone is paying out £2 million this year to look after 174 African refugee children who have turned up at Heathrow in 1998. Brent Council admits it is virtually 'overwhelmed' as hundreds of Kosovans arrived in September and October.

The message is very simple - how much longer can Britain face this flood before the British either drown, or decide to turn the tide and take their country back?

THE RAVEN.

OBTUARY

JEFFREY SMITH

*Born 5th February. 1932
Died 21st November. 1998*

It is with great sadness that the editorial team at Broadsword marks the passing of one of our regular and most energetic contributors. Jeffrey Smith died suddenly in November 1998. He was the pen behind the column "Unorthodox Views by Jeff".

An outspoken opponent of the British political system, a dedicated opponent of all organised religions and a loudly declared National Socialist. Jeff wrote hundreds of angry letters across the years denouncing the ignorance of politicians and clergy alike. He was ferocious in his opposition to Third World immigration into Britain and race-mixing.

Regarded as eccentric by many for his unorthodox and controversial views on the Bible, the Scriptures and modern science, he would challenge all comers to debate his ideas and theories. A stalwart Movement member in the Yorkshire region, "Old Jeff" will be greatly missed. His many predictions will no doubt face the test of time - his wisdom and advice will equally be missed.

British Movement members and supporters from the North of England and East Midlands attended the funeral and his coffin was draped in the St. George flag and Union Jack so that all who watched the hearse drive past could see that a patriot and a true Englishman had passed.

Farewell Jeffrey - may your god guide you and protect you.

MAJOR IAN SOUTER CLARENCE.

*Born 12th June. 1923
Died 31st Sept. 1998.*

Served his country with distinction as an officer in the Black Watch. The Parachute Regiment. 22nd SAS.

The Major, a gentleman and a patriot, known to many in Britain's National Socialist and Nationalist movements during the 1970's and 1980's.

Many were taught valuable lessons by the Major or "Mr. 'C'" as some called him.

After a long battle against terminal illness died in Poole Hospital, Dorset.

An animal lover and a man who was proud that he always kept his word when he gave it.

"Whenever we see the Purbeck Hills we shall remember him".

WE ARE THE SURVIVORS

This is an article for those born BEFORE 1940....

We were born before television, before penicillin, polio shots, frozen food, Xerox, contact lenses, videos, frisbees, freebies and the pill. We lived before radar, credit cards, split atoms, laser beams and ball-point pens; before dishwashers, tumble dryers, electric blankets, air conditioners, drip-dry clothes and before man walked on the moon.

We got married first and then lived together - how quaint can you be? We thought "fast food" was what you ate in Lent. A "Big Mac" was an oversized raincoat, and crumpet we had for tea. We existed before house-husbands, computer dating and dual careers; when a meaningful relationship meant getting along with your cousins, and sheltered accommodation was where you waited for a bus.

We were before day-care centres, group homes and disposable nappies. We had never heard of FM radio, electric typewriters, artificial hearts, word processors, yoghurt, and young men wearing ear-rings. For us "time sharing" meant togetherness, a chip was a piece of wood or a fried potato, hardware meant nuts and bolts, and software wasn't a word.

Before 1940 "Made in Japan" meant junk; the term "making out" referred to how you did in your exams; a stud was something that fastened a collar to a shirt; and "going all the way" meant staying on the double decker bus until it reached the depot. Pizzas, McDonalds and instant coffee were unheard of. In our day, cigarette smoking was fashionable; grass was mown; coke was kept in the coal house; a joint was a piece of meat you had on Sundays; and pot was something you cooked it in. Rock music was grandmother's lullaby; El Dorado was an ice cream; a gay person was the life and soul of the party and nothing more, and aids just meant beauty treatment or help for someone in trouble.

We who were born before 1940 must be a hardy bunch when you think of the ways in which the world has changed and the adjustments we have had to make. No wonder we are so confused and there is a generation gap.

BUT, by the grace of God, we have survived - Hallelujah!

MORE MULTI-RACIAL MADNESS

Continuing Broadsword's regular look at examples of the insanity of the multi-racial society which has been forced on the people of Britain. British Movement is totally opposed to the principles of multi-racialism and multi-culturalism. The damage being done to our culture and our society by the forced absorption of peoples from many alien creeds, cultures, customs and races. Despite what we are told by the liberals and socialists, so-called progressive thinkers and the "politically correct", mixing the races and cultures does not enrich our society or blend cultures together, it destroys our culture and leads to a total breakdown of ethics and morals within our society and amongst the immigrant communities resident here.

An example of how much damage has been done is illustrated by the following item about a recent Channel 4 TV programme about black youth in Britain and gang rape. The programme broadcast on the "Despatches" series on Thursday November 19th 1998 caused uproar amongst black political activists and anti-racists because for once the TV newsmedia told the truth about the consequences of multi-culturalism and they (the anti-racist/liberals/progressives) could not bear to hear the truth, could not handle the truth.

Tonight, anti-racist campaigners will protest outside Channel 4's headquarters. Why? Because a Dispatches programme tackles gang rape and points the finger at young black men.

Deborah Davies was the reporter responsible. Here, she explains why it should be shown

'Anyone here been raped by white boys?'

The fact of the matter is that the "Despatches" programme clearly pointed out that in 20 cases of gang rape in England and Wales since 1996, (and there have only been about 20 such cases in that time), the figures showed that 80% of those involved as rapists were black. In fact of the 14 cases covered by the programme, nine of those gang rapes were carried out by all black gangs, four were by mixed race gangs (including blacks) and one gang rape was by an Asian gang. Many of the victims were black or mixed race girls - equally many of the victims were white. Many of the gang rapists were youngsters including one case in Manchester where the oldest boy was fourteen years old and the youngest was eleven years old.

Despite the fact that an all black discussion programme composed of black writers and teachers led by black presenter, Darcus Howe followed later that night, the multi-culturalists and anti-racists have denounced the programme as lies. The National Assembly Against Racism was demonstrating outside the studios even before the programme was screened and called the programme producers racist. (Channel 4 is anything but anti-minority or racist as any National Socialist or British Nationalist is well aware.)

The harsh facts revealed by this documentary show just how barriers of law and respect, morals and ethics are broken down when different cultures and races are crammed together into the melting pot of Britain's inner cities.

How do those from the West Indies, Africa, Asia and the Far East blend together and integrate into a totally alien White British society?

The answer is that they do not. The result is a lawless, cultural desert where a mutant multi-cultural monster creates chaos for Britain's future. This is what is happening now. What will our inner cities be like ten years from now?

MORE MULTI-RACIAL MADNESS - WANNABEES -

What are WANNABEES? WANNABEES are White youngsters and teenagers of both genders who have thrown away their British culture, turned their backs on their White heritage and "Wanna Be Black".

Seduced by the mass media, pop culture and materialistic advertising the "WANNABEES", listen only to black music (reggae/soul/rap/jungle etc); they adopt black fashions and dress like blacks, talk like blacks, speaking in ghetto slang or sprinkle their speech with bits of patois; they wear their hair in black styles and cuts; they absorb black culture, worship black sporting heroes and film stars; they desperately throw themselves into any event in the black community, wanting to be accepted.

This is the saddest reflection of the consequences of multi-culturalism and multi-racialism, a generation of white British youth who do not identify with White British culture and Heritage but want to be part of the Third World communities which have infiltrated our towns and cities.

☞ Illustration - the Brixton based Movement For Justice - yet another organisation which is dedicated to undermining British society and replacing it with a multi-racial cosmopolitan state.

ASYLUM-SEEKERS, ECONOMIC MIGRANTS - REFUGEES HOW MUCH MORE CAN BRITAIN TAKE? BRITISH MOVEMENT SAYS NO MORE.

All across Europe the frontiers are being tested by a steady flood of the world's poor. From Russia, from Asia, from Africa, and South America these people are trying every trick to enter Western Europe. Even countries such as Ireland (Eire) which have never known Third World immigration before are now facing the in-flow of Somalis, Tanzanians, Bengalis, Afghans or Balkan Gypsies - and of course Britain is getting more than its fair share. At every port and airport, every week, in they come. Young children travelling alone from African countries are taught to hide in airport toilets on arrival, to destroy their tickets and travel documents straight away, because if British Immigration Officers cannot prove which country you have come from, they cannot deport you back to it - the British will only deport to country of origin. So no papers - and the Asylum seeker gets looked after while the case is considered - those who can will abscond into London and disappear, making a new life as an illegal immigrant.

A BM supporter recently visited a number of seaside towns on the South Coast where he found gangs of Czech, Romanian or Slovak Gypsies begging - everywhere he walked on the seafront at Southsea he heard the cries of "You English rich, Gypsy poor, you give money, you give money to poor Gypsy!"

Protests by our supporter to the police about the abusive aggressive begging got nowhere. The police of course do nothing unless an obvious crime is being committed, too many Gypsies, too few police officers, and too many police afraid of being labelled "racist" if they move these aggressive beggars on. Meanwhile more and more of these gypsy "refugees" cross the Channel into Dover, Margate, Poole, Southampton, Portsmouth, the list goes on and on, with a seemingly never ending flow of "refugees" or "asylum-seekers" into central London.

DON'T BE A PART OF THE PROBLEM - BE PART OF THE SOLUTION.

Often British Movement activists are asked, when and where BM or BNSM candidates are standing for election, either in local Council elections or for Parliamentary seats. The answer is that the Movement is not fielding candidates because the electoral system is rigged to the "Establishment's" rules and no National Socialist or British Nationalist candidates will get anything like a fair chance of being elected in any significant numbers. Nor will any genuine NS or British Nationalist candidate be allowed to have equal campaigning rights with mainstream candidates - meeting halls will be denied, speeches unreported or censored, broadcasts opposed or limited, election workers attacked and assaulted.

If by some miracle, a Nationalist or NS councillor or MP was elected, then any attempt they made to change the system would be sabotaged and suffocated by the existing political machine - note that when a BNP councillor (Derek Beacon) was elected in the Isle of Dogs, the local council office workers refused to co-operate with anything he might try to do and many Labour Party councillors threatened to walk out of meetings he might attend and worked overtime on isolating him from any kind of influence.

The British Movement wants no part of the corrupt political Establishment that exists in Britain today. To try to be elected into both local government or national government is to be drawn into that corrupt body. The British Movement does not want to become part of that system; as National Socialists we are totally opposed to it. The whole British political system must be dismantled and rebuilt from scratch, the British Movement does not see any future in playing the Establishment's game, the so-called Democratic election process. Abolition of the present system is the solution and to want to do otherwise is to be part of the problem.

SO WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WHEN THIS SOCIETY STARTS TO BREAK DOWN?

Many people in Britain like to fool themselves into believing that somehow the nation's problems are simply going to fade away and that somewhere out there on the distant horizon is a rosy future. Wrong!

The future for Britain under the present system and conditions will be anything but rosy. The present monopoly Capitalist system of trade and currency is already showing serious signs of stress. The economic future for industry and commerce is thin, that means jobs lost and major unemployment and depression.

How will the present generations of British cope with that future?

No jobs - No TV - No booze - rationed food - rationed petrol - electricity on limited supply, total break down of law and order in towns and cities - what then?

The British population has become soft and materialistic over the last forty years, unable to function without the comforts and consumer goods of the modern world. How will it function without those goods and services?

Our population is centred on towns and cities where larger numbers of non-White "British" now live and control parts of the local political and social administration. How will the White minority survive in the urban centres when the system breaks down?

Will the British fight for survival or will they roll over and and crawl away whimpering?

When society breaks down it will be survival of the fittest - a time for hard men and women facing hard choices - a time for clenched fists and bloody noses.

For you will it be fight or flight?

The wisdom of a thousand generations slumber in you. Waken it and you have found the key which will open the door to your deepest desire. Only he who esteems himself is worthy of being a man. Only he is a man who bears the living past and future in himself. For only he is able to stand above the present moment, and only he who is master of the present is successful. He alone is fortunate, and only in the fortunate is divinity. Thus sayeth the voice of our ancestors.

THE WEREWOLF COLUMN

IS BRITAIN ALREADY LOST? CAN OUR PEOPLE WAKE UP OR IS IT TOO LATE?

"BRITAIN AWAKE!"

This has been the slogan of British National Socialists since the 1930's.

Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union of Fascists marched under the banner of "Britain Awake". The assorted White Nationalist and pro-National Socialist groupings of the 1950's and early 1960's used the masthead "Britain Awake" on their literature; Mr. Colin Jordan's NSM carried a Sunwheel standard bearing the slogan "Britain Awake" at the notorious Trafalgar Square meeting and British Movement has used the slogan since its founding.

It has been said many times over those years that the bulk of the British people are asleep, sleep-walking through their lives, oblivious to what is really going on around them, lulled into mental slumber by the expert mind-controllers of the "Establishment". Only those who have had their mind awoken and eyes opened by the truth of National Socialism can see what is obviously going wrong both in our country and in the world generally. When and only when the active elements of the British population wake up and recognise the problem can the "Establishment" be challenged and overturned but now at the end of the 20th Century, we have to ask the question, "Is it too late?" and "Is our country already lost?"

There can be no denying that the majority of the British population is mentally comatose (by the British population we mean the indigenous White European British people, not those who are British by bits of paper or accident of birth in the UK).

Back in the misty years of the 1960's and 1970's there was widespread and active resistance to Third World immigration into Britain, especially by the British working-class. The older generation opposed the colonisation of whole neighbourhoods and districts by one of two methods; they either supported pro-Enoch Powell groups and campaigned on behalf of anti-immigration organisations like TRU-AIM (Trade Unionists Against Immigration) and they voted for the National Front; or they joined the steady flood of people selling-up and moving out in the "White Flight" to areas where immigrants were not settling. The younger elements of the working-class, especially the youth took a more direct approach and fought the newcomers on the streets, and in the playground. Many inner city areas became no-go areas for non-whites after dark and racial tension reached boiling point in the centres of many industrial towns and cities. While much of the older generations response had some loose political or at least racially aware motivation, by no means was the younger generation's reaction all politically motivated. Much racial violence was purely territorial or gang orientated but race did play a part, the youth were reacting to a situation which was being forced on them by conditions and circumstances they had no control over.

Now in the late 1990's the situation has greatly degenerated. Decades of official multi-racial propaganda has brain washed the majority of the younger generation. The older more racially aware people are either cowed into submission or have accepted the "Establishment" line that a multi-racial, multi-cultural society is a fact and they must learn to live with it.

The so-called educated middle-classes and liberal/democratic elements of British society have collaborated and colluded in the undermining of opposition to a multi-racial Britain and have committed a betrayal of the British people on a massive scale.

The British people are now force-fed a constant barrage of multi-racial imagery at every turning. The youth are swamped with the concept of "positive images" of non-whites; their sporting heroes are Black or Asian; media promoted musicians and film stars; even TV presenters and news-casters.

Traditional British history has been purged from the school curriculum in case it offends non-whites. Non-white school children are encouraged to take pride in their culture, language and history, but White British children are told that their history is one to be ashamed of, an Empire built on 'racism', slavery, colonial exploitation, 'imperialism' and greed. British school children are now taught that their fore-fathers oppressed the peoples of Asia, Africa and elsewhere; stripped those countries of their wealth and stole their land, therefore the White British are a guilty, 'racist' people and must accept people from different cultures and races into their country to atone for the past. For those who do not toe the line there is a whole battery of laws and legislation, rules and regulations designed to eradicate 'racist' thoughts, words and deeds. Free speech on matters of race and ethnicity and opposition to Third World immigration into Britain is officially censored and discouraged. The media together with all arms of both national and local government enforce the Race Relations and Community Relations laws with a vigour bordering on obsession.

As if the imposition of a multi-cultural society built on the backs of those non-whites who have settled in Britain is not enough, the multi-media reinforces its assault on hearts and minds by importing even more ammunition from the USA. The presentation of Black American music, film, fashion and even speech is promoted as desirable and superior to what is White and British. Every TV soap-opera is quick to include racially mixed couples in the story lines and any notion of White resistance to multi-racialism is portrayed as evil, hateful and out of touch with 'modern' thinking. The forces of multi-culturalism and multi-racialism are backed by business and government budgets running into many millions of pounds. The multi-racial society is being swept over Britain by a tidal wave of political directives, legislation, international sponsorship, and multi-media promotion and propaganda.

In the face of these overwhelming odds can the minority of active British National Socialists and White Nationalists possibly wake up the rest of the Nation? Is Britain already lost? Can we shout "Britain Awake!" and hope that they will stir? Is there still hope that somehow the pressure of multi-racialism will force them to look around and see the damage and act before they are destroyed?

These questions have to be faced and as British National Socialists we must do everything in our power to challenge the threat, to counter the forces which have hypnotised our people. The tide of time is against us, so all National Socialists must campaign, work and fight to build a credible opposition to what is wrong in our country, lead by example, create a counter culture and set a beacon which will light the way out of the darkness and force open the eyes of a slumbering folk.

As National Socialists we must never give up!

"BRITAIN AWAKE!"

BRITISH MOVEMENT WOMEN'S DIVISION

It is over twelve months now, since first I placed pen to paper to touch upon the grief that I have inside due to what the Judiciary deemed it within their power to do to a defenceless woman.

Perhaps you may or may not remember the heartfelt extract of misery written by Mother Goose, and of her fight for the safety of her four year old child from its birth father, who the little child was making terrible accusations against even in its few years, and talking of things being carried out whilst in his care. The Judiciary in its total power over and above we, the populace, took away all rights from this mother to protect her child, and placed the child with her father who had been abusing her, physically, and told this mother that she was only showing vindictive tendencies towards the father due to their break up.

The details of the case are all too horrendous and too lengthy to be combined within the lines of this article.

This woman has suffered a tortuous twelve months without her child. The only driving force she has had to keep her going is the love of her husband and the anger that now runs through her veins like life-blood.

I would ask you, all those that read the original letter, what is the difference between the Judiciary, which is all part of this corrupt system, taking away my child, and the way that you are forced into bringing up your children? Is it not correct, that the system is also preventing you from raising your children under your protection, as flesh parents of your children? Is it not correct that your rights are being taken from you in exactly the same way, but upon a much larger scale? The system cannot, no matter how hard it may endeavour, take away the law of love of this parent to her child, whether my child is with me or not. My child has never left me for one moment of the whole time we have been apart. I am not even permitted access, but my child lives within the love I have for her, and I will never give up hope of having her home.

But look at yourselves. Are you all prepared, as doting parents, to sit back and let your protective rights of parenthood be ridden over, roughshod, by any person who deems they have the 'law' behind them? What is the law? Is it what one person may concoct as Law upon a piece of paper, or is it the emotions of a person? Who can say who can or can't love who? I could say to one person 'it is not right that you love that person' but the person himself or herself will carry the emotion within as to whether he or she can or can't love.

I was told in a Court room, that I showed a lack of maternal instinct towards my child. Why - because I was challenging the system. I WOULD NOT accept that a Court could tell me that I had no rights in a Court of Law regarding the welfare of MY child. Now is that the truth - YOU ASK YOURSELVES. If you had the same scenario directed at you, who has rights to protect your child - you, as parents, or a Court room full of people who neither know you, your situation, or your child, but who deem it so to strip parental rights from you under the guise of the LAW!

Now ask yourself another question. What are your children being indoctrinated with as education? To welcome all types of cultures, and lose their own. Is this your protection as parent of your children to allow this? I say quite categorically, the Law is an ass! But I also say quite categorically, that you, as parents, are asses also, for standing by and letting them do this.

I challenged the Court system as to the rights of my child to protection by the parent that fought to bring her into the world.

I lost. But did I really lose? That Judge could NOT get above me. I was given a choice, either I put up with access visits to the child's birth father and watch her suffer, or I give her up. It was Hobson's choice. Either I continue to watch my child scream in agony after access visits, (bearing in mind the Court had also restricted me from constant visits with her to hospital and the doctors surgery, stating quite clearly to me that I was abusing her by constantly having her examined!), or I let the Court take the responsibility for the rights that they said I did not have. It was the most difficult decision I have ever had to make, but I WOULD NOT BOW OR SCRAPE TO ANY JUDGE who deemed that he knew better the law of motherly instinct of mother to her child. So I gave up my child into the hands of the Courts. But I made it known with all my strength that if any harm came to her that I would exercise my right as flesh mother to hound them to the grave. My rights were taken from me, so I handed over responsibility, even though it broke my heart and that of my child.

This is the power that they hold over us. Now will you stand and fight back, or will you continue to hide in the shadows..

Now look again at the scenario. Are you, as flesh parents to your children, strong enough to hand over your children to the system and say that if they wish to take away your rights to love and protect your children, then they can have them, plus the responsibility of what happens when it all goes completely wrong. Will you sit back and accept the system according to education etc., that they deem you should raise your children into, or do YOU have a choice? You do have a choice! You have a choice to be strong TOGETHER now and fight the system NOW. Put the system right for yourselves, and it has to be right for your children. Are you parents, or is the Government parent? Does the Government have any right to dictate to you how to raise your children. No. But you are sitting back and letting it! If you do not correct the system now, for you, your children will be in the same situation with their children, and so on and so on.

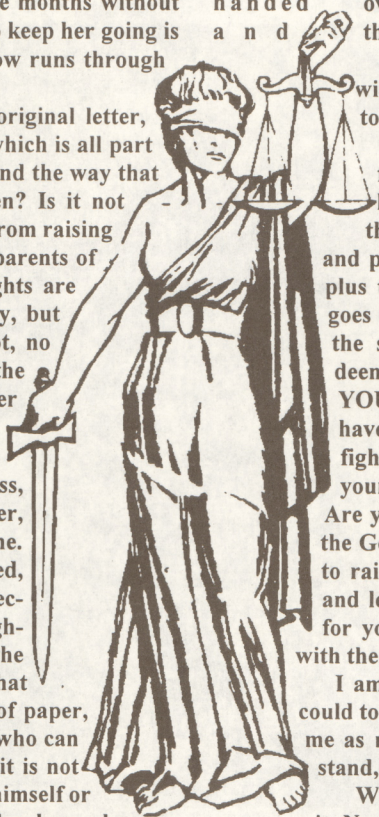

I am one woman. I fought, in the only way that I could to defy them, and I would NOT let them get above me as mother. It may seem difficult to you to understand, but if you sit and think about it, I was right.

Who is the abuser of YOUR children? The system is. Now then, you either stand back and let them carry on abusing, and moan and groan about the consequences, or you make a stand NOW. If you choose not to do so, and it is hard sometimes to think of stepping out of your own little world. You may be happy picking through the crumbs from the richman's table. You may have enough to keep a steady little existence going. It may suit you to grumble and moan about the amount of ethnic children in your child's school, and how they prevent you from teaching your child 'this little piggy goes to market' But are you, as parents, prepared to stand up and take up the cudgel and do battle, or will you choose just to sit back and make your apologies now to your grandchildren and great grandchildren, when they are the ethnics in their schools!

No matter how difficult it may seem to understand, I stood up in a Court room for my rights as parent, above all Judges, Court Welfare etc. The responsibility of the safety of my child is now in their hands.

The responsibility for the lives of your children is in yours!

The Rose.

ABDULLAH AZAD

THE PASSPORT KING - FIXER FOR ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS AND ASYLUM SEEKERS

He is just one of many such illegal operators filling our country with the unwanted of the Third World, how many more are there like him?

Early in 1998 the Lord Chancellor's Department released an unusual and little heard of consultation document titled "Control of Unscrupulous Immigration Advisers". The fact that an arm of the state's legal system saw fit to research and publish such a document indicates just how much a problem exists in the UK. In 1998 the cost of asylum seekers to the British tax payer is around £2.1 billion - and set to rise in 1999. There has been a flood of 34,000 asylum applications to the Home Office in 1998 alone.

The privately run Immigration Advisory offices/Immigration and Asylum Legal advice centres are a growth industry with a massive cash turnover and real career opportunities for young Asians recently qualified as solicitors (lawyers) or accountants. The government document identified more than 250 such companies or individual "consultants" who are operating on the fringes of or outside the law. Not that there is a lack of officially sanctioned and government funded organisations dedicated to bringing these people into Britain legally and settling them in Britain permanently - the Immigration Advisory Service and the Citizens Advice Bureau all pitch in there with the Commission for Racial Equality and the National Association for the Welfare of Immigrants in supporting roles.

The bulk of these so-called 'Immigration Advisory offices and Immigrant Welfare services' are usually based in the midst of the immigrant communities, funded by local authority grants and aided and abetted by the immigrant business communities. In November 1998 the "Observer" newspaper identified a key player in the business of supplying illegal immigrants and asylum seekers with forged papers and passports. Abdullah Azad is based in Greater Manchester and runs a network of successful businesses from Mazda House, in Moss Side, Manchester. He is also keen to help fellow Asians settle in Britain, the "Observer" alleges that he can obtain British passports and visas for a price, £6,000 is the going rate for forged British passports.

The official Home Office figures for the numbers of Asians in Britain currently stands at around 850,000 Indians, 477,000 Pakistanis, 163,000 Bengalis; these numbers do not include Afghans, Sri Lankans, Tamils, Burmese, East African Asians (Ugandan or Kenyan) or others of Asian origin born outside the Indian sub-continent or all those born in Britain of Asian parents.

Of course these figures are also based on those who have entered Britain legally.

Abdullah Azad is not some street corner operator, he has a number of business interests and is wealthy, he employs about 40 people in his Manchester based companies; property businesses; a small clothing factory; a post office franchise; two hotels; rented properties and his advisory service at Mazda House.

According to the "Observer" the illegal immigration business is well organised and well funded. There are unconfirmed reports of a printing works in Rochdale which uses state of the art computer design and printers to produce hundreds of forged British passports. In addition there were 500 official Pakistani passports stolen from Manchester airport earlier in 1998. If the illegal immigrant or asylum seeker cannot afford the £6,000 for a British passport then £1,000 will buy a Pakistani passport. (Ideal for Afghans, Sri Lankans, Tamils etc. who have been smuggled into Britain without any papers or visas and do not want to be deported back to their country of origin).

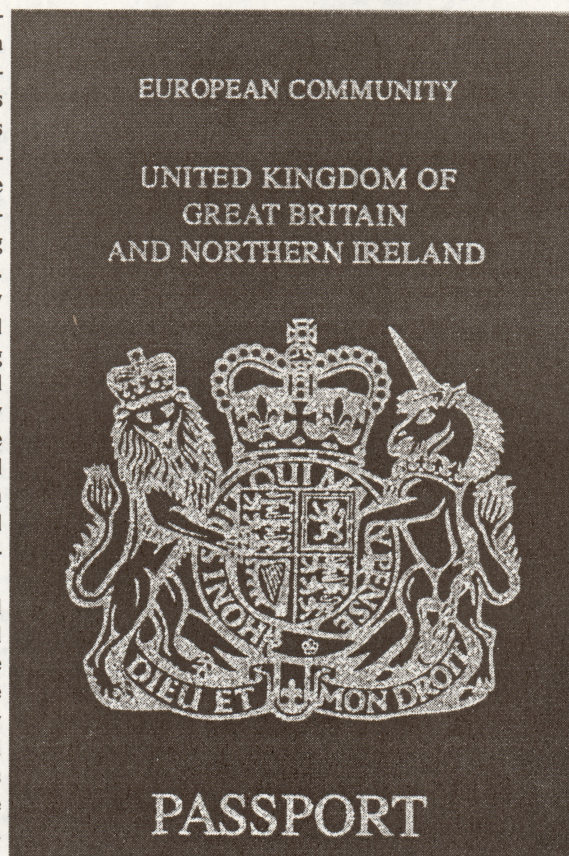

At the present time, Britain is facing a never ending flood of Third World refugees and asylum seekers, together with the flow of others; North Africans, Somalis, Kosovans, Kurds, assorted Balkan Gypsies, and the usual range of West Africans, Arabs, South Americans, Central Americans and Philipinos. Where will it end? Of course these people are all championed by the Race Relations industry, the swamping of the native British is of no consequence to them. It is little wonder that so many British towns and cities no longer appear British, no wonder that in central London the White British are the ethnic minority. As more and more non-whites are elected to office in local government and national government, they will of course work towards dismantling what little immigration control regulations this country has, the Labour Party has already repealed elements of entry control in regard to so-called "dependants".

Many of the current crop of Labour Party MP's and officials were far-Left student activists in the 1960's and 1970's when the battle cry of the anti-racist Left was "No Immigration Controls, they are all welcome".

The British Movement is determined to maintain resistance to continued Third World immigration into Britain, the British must wake up before it is too late - a human tidal wave will engulf our Nation unless our people wake up and act. The British Movement is working to re-kindle the opposition to non-white immigration which existed in the 1960's and 1970's - the ordinary British must realise that as a people we will cease to exist, our culture and heritage will be lost unless as a people the British mobilise and resist.

The flood must end - Stop all Third World immigration and begin repatriation. Now!

MAGNA CARTA HAS ANYONE IN ENGLAND EVER SEEN IT?

The Magna Carta is the ancient charter signed by King John the First at Runnymede in the year 1215 and was regarded as the foundation stone of civil and legal rights for the people of England and eventually the people of Britain. For centuries since the historic signing at Runnymede, the freedoms and rights granted by Magna Carta have been referred to in British courts, the principles of British justice and politics. Times have changed and an ever tightening grip on the rights and freedoms of the British people is made by the Westminster government. The Civil Service, the Judiciary, the Intelligence Services, the Police, the Inland Revenue service, all direct and control the lives of the British people, all are unelected, where are our freedoms now? Magna Carta granted the Englishman the right to be tried by his peers, but how many in this country are truly the Englishman's peers? How many who are not of British origin now sit in judgement or control our political and justice systems?

A number of questions must now be asked.

Has Magna Carta ever been published in modern English? What does it say? What rights and freedoms does Magna Carta give us in Law?

How many children in British schools are taught about the Magna Carta - what do they know of Runnymede?

There is an organisation in Britain called the Runnymede Trust, but the Runnymede Trust is nothing to do with Magna Carta - the Runnymede Trust exists to promote racial equality in Britain.

Why is the Magna Carta hidden from the British people?

What does it enshrine in its ancient words that is so dangerous to the present political system? Broadsword would like to hear from anyone with answers to the above questions, any information on the real contents of Magna Carta would be appreciated.

THE WAR OF WORDS THE BRITISH MOVEMENT CAMPAIGN UP TO THE MILLENNIUM

Forwards to the Future - Looking Forward - Building the National Socialist Alternative.

The British Movement has often stated that it does not want any part in the current British political system; the current party political system is corrupt and decadent, it cannot be changed from within. The Movement seeks to create an alternative National Socialist system, a counter culture to the present multi-racial mayhem. The "Establishment" has all the controls: the press, radio, TV, telecommunications, advertising, the courts, judiciary, police, banks, finance. The British Movement has to challenge powerful interests, powerful forces and institutions. The battle has to start somewhere - the opening campaign up to the Millennium is the "War of Words".

This is the starting block, for this is a propaganda war against the "Establishment" and against the political and racial enemies of the British Nation and Folk. The campaign will start with small steps, small beginnings, limited resources at present, but the "War of Words" has begun. In future issues of Broadsword the British Movement will present the BNSM programme for radical change, a White Power revolution and the creation of a National Socialist New Order in Britain.

A WORD FOR THE FORGOTTEN.

By The FOX

My Great Uncle never forgave Winston Churchill for forgetting the fate of British soldiers in the east during the Second World War, for he was one of the unfortunate to be sent there.

After boarding a naval ship with many other newly trained soldiers, my Great Uncle was shipped to the east where he thought he was to fight the Japanese. He never got to fight for his country, when ordered ashore, the Japanese were there to receive them. There was no battle, no guns raged, no shots fired; they had not been allowed to defend themselves.

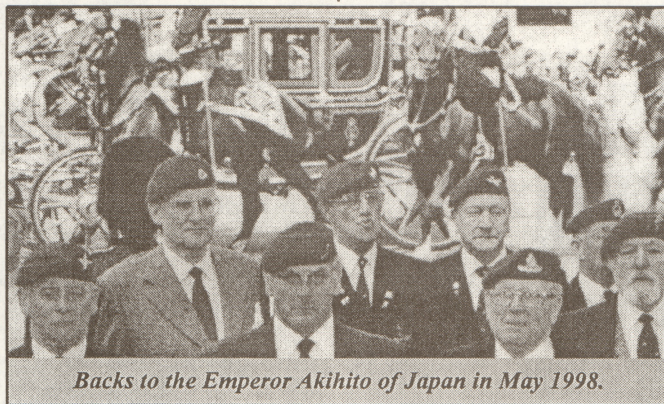

In to the hands of the Japanese my Great Uncle was taken as a Prisoner of War to Chaingi Prison in Singapore where he was starved to the point of death and thrown on a pile of corpses for dead. It was only when his comrades notice him twitch that they realised he was not quite dead. Only for this reason did he survive the war, and he rarely spoke of the event for he knew many had not been so luck has he had been.

Churchill knew the destination of those ships and the fate that awaited our men; our men suffered at the hands of a callous hegemony. Some even being offered for bayonet practice. But all suffered atrocities.

In 1998 our ex-POWs, unbowed and unforgiving, turned their backs on Japan's Emperor Akihito on a state visit to Britain. All they sought was an apology on behalf of Japan, and our Prime Minister did nothing to help our forgotten soldiers.

The irony is that in 1998 relatives of European Jew fought for remuneration of so-called past moneys they claimed belonged to Jews up until WW2. The Labour government awarded £30,000,000 of tax-payers money to compensate these Jews - yet an apology is too much.

Many died in the war, soldiers from all over the world: America, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Britain, Canada, France, Germany, and many other countries. Innocent Women and children also. And yet it seems the world is taught to remember that only the Jews died.

Backs to the Emperor Akihito of Japan in May 1998.

UTOK "POSLEDNI BOJ (1993 - 1997)"

The Czech Republic is the homeland to this talented Pro-White metal outfit. They are in very much the same vein as their comrades, Excalibur and are obviously extremely talented. They have a great rock balled 'Vrat Se (Ian Stuart R.I.P.) which is a just and fitting tribute to Ian. The only problem with this CD is that it makes me wish I could understand the Czech language. If and when you come across this album for sale, support this great band and the Slovakian label, 'Victory Records' that the CD is out on. An excellent power packed release.

(VICTORY RECORDS)

Duration: 39.21. Production: Clear, crisp and powerful. Musical Style: Heavy metal. Lyrics: Covering a broad range of topics including KKK, Rudolf Hess, Ian Stuart and pride in their Czech nation and race. Artwork: Striking cover depicting soldiers of the Axis forces engaging in combat and full English translations of the Czech lyrics.

DYING BREED "DAY OF RECKONING"

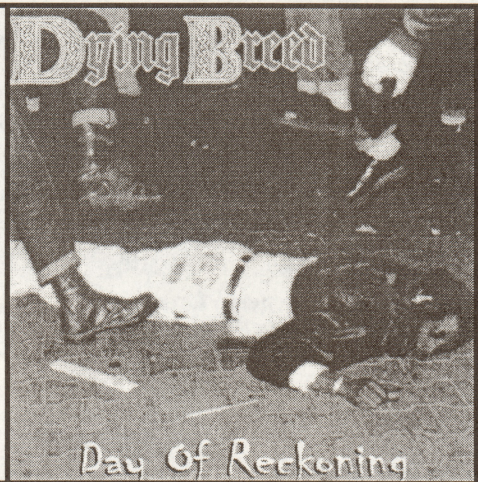

Dying Breed (great band name!) are an American Hammerskin band who deliver (as many U.S. bands do these days) music of the hard-core variety. The songs are mostly short, two minute anthems full of anger but also put together in a professional quality manner.

This is yet another impressive debut from our American cousins and I'm already looking forward to the follow up.

(HATE RECORDS)

Duration: 23.13 Production: As with all the 'Hate records' releases - top notch! Musical Style: U.S. Hard-core. Lyrics: Direct and aggressive. Artwork: Excellent quality, full colour and full lyrics.

BEFORE GOD "WOLVES AMONGST THE SHEEP"

Before God are a combination of members from the American Pro-White band Bound For Glory as well as the U.S. metal band Brick. This is one seriously heavy intense and highly intricate piece of work. The music is full on death metal of the type delivered by bands such as Morbid Angel. The album has been largely successful in tapping into the metal music scene thus winning new converts to our cause. A Minnesota Heavy metal radio station played the track "Minneapolis Burns" and the track was the third most requested song on the station. This shows just how good this album is. Nuff said!

(SUBZERO RECORDS)

Duration: 46.09. Production: Totally 100% professional and worthy of this hugely talented band. Musical Style: Pure Death Metal. Lyrics: Highly intelligent, topical and inclusive of subjects often not covered by Pro-White bands. Artwork: Very professional, full lyrics.

SHADOWS OF THE EMPIRE "LEGION OF ST GEORGE"

Over the years, many modern day bands have tried, but sadly failed, to recreate that authentic English Oi sound of the early eighties from such acts as Cockspanner, Cockney Rejects and the 4 skins. Now at last comes this West London based outfit whose debut release combines the sound of the original English Oi bands, played with talent and style, the modern day production that adds clearness to the bands raw power and a lyrical message that gives a spark to every pound Aryan's burning pride. A thoroughly enjoyable debut CD.

(MOVEMENT RECORDS)

Duration: 35.26. Production: Overloaded with power and clarity. Musical Style: 100% pure English Oi. Lyrics: Intelligent and well written with memorable lines such as: "When the blindfold drops, the penny does too, and suddenly it dawns, they've been lying to you". Artwork: Great collection of full colour and original photos of Oswald Mosely, Ian Stuart and more complete with full lyrics.

ARYAN BROTHERHOOD / WHITELAW "GERMAN-BRITISH-TERRORMACHINE"

As the title of this album will tell you, this is a split CD from two relatively new bands from the Mother and Father lands. The opening track from A. B. hits you like a steam train and proceeds to continue the onslaught for the rest of their five tracks. This band's style reminds me of B.F.G. in their 'Fight Goes On' period - Cracking stuff! The much awaited debut release from Whitelaw comes next and opens up with their rendition of the Combat 84 classic 'Rapist'. The Whitelaw material is tuneful, well written and the vocals come across powerfully. However, the production doesn't do the band justice and could do with more power, but it's a good all round debut release and very worthy of support.

(MOVEMENT RECORDS)

Duration: 35.53. Production: A.B. - Full and powerful. / Whitelaw - Could do with more power but very clear. Musical Style: A.B. - Guitar driven metal. / Whitelaw - Oi / Rock. Lyrics: A.B. - All printed in German so unfortunately can't comment. / Whitelaw - Well written and sure to inspire our ranks. Artwork: Very professional, full colour collection of NS imagery complete with full lyrics and band photos.

PURGE "CODE OF VIOLENCE"

Here we have a hot debut from a new American "Hate-core" band. The music is in the same sort of style as another U.S. act, The Blue Eyed Devils. There's tons of awesome rifts and feed-back and the lyrics are definitely not for the faint hearted, if you know what I mean! The nine tracks are short and straight to the point and will leave you wanting justice for our kindred fallen comrades! Hate records, who are based in Deutschland and America, have done a top notch job on the packing and look set to become one of the leading labels in our movement. So if you enjoy angry, hateful and vicious music of the White Power kind, Code of Violence is for you!

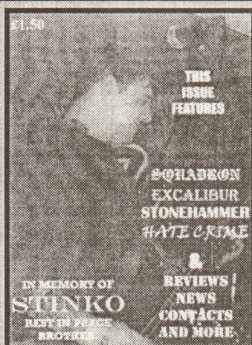

(HATE RECORDS)

Duration: 31.12. Production: Loud, bombastic and crisp. Musical Style: American Hard-core. Lyrics: These guys are pulling no punches here and a spade is a spade every time! Artwork: Eye opening front cover that reminds me of Berserk's "Crush the week". Full colour, great graphics and full lyrics.

NATIONHOOD

AN EXTRACT FROM NATIONHOOD

The Heritage Front Canada.

History is not the study of general humanity but of nations. No matter what we study about the past, it is always couched in some form of nation, but that form has changed dramatically throughout the centuries. In ancient Greece, nation meant the polis, or just a city with its surrounding countryside. Louis XIV said, "I am France," and he was, for in his time the nation was centred on the king. The old Levantine civilisation of the Near East had a peculiar form of nation, there the nation was defined by religion. Nestorians, Muslims, Jews, etc., belonged to different nations. Jews today continue this religious form of nationhood. The Western world has given a spatial meaning to the concept of nation. With all these forms we might ask just what 'nation' means.

The Germans were the first to give nation a racial meaning, and surely race must be a part of the definition, because we can tell nationalities by looking at the people, but then we must acknowledge that most, if not all, nations are racial composites. Is Japan a nation? The Japanese are composed of Chinese, Polynesian and Ainu. Germany itself is composed of Nordic, Alpine and Dinaric races. Britain is Nordic-Mediterranean. So if we think of nations only as racial, we get a sense that something is missing in our definition.

That obvious something is culture: nations are racial-cultural divisions of humanity, brought forth by nature and are not creations of the mind, as is the state. the form of nation can change throughout the centuries and between civilisations, but this definition remains true. The Athenians were hardly distinguishable from the Spartans racially, but they certainly were culturally; hence they formed different nations. Culture even affects ethnicity, for when people share the same language, religion, customs, traditions, etc., they blend, to form a distinguishable national type. but if a totally different race blends with an original nation so formed, that destroys the original nation. The reason: when people with different talents are temperament mix, their culture must invariably change.

It is with this understanding of nation that we must look at modern North America, where we see Canada and the United States defined today as "multicultural nations". This is an obvious contradiction of terms. The view in these countries is that a nation is a geographic-economic-political extent, demarcated by a line on a map like the 49th parallel. Such a superficial view of nationhood suits the economic power structure of the corporate world because modern corporations are themselves nationless, and just as they move capital to diverse international locations, with loyalties only to their profit margins, the encouragement of peoples to move across borders is similarly determined by the same profit motivation. With an abundant supply of labour, wages can be held low regardless of where that labour comes from. Multiculturalism is profitable.

Ask any Canadian or American what the difference is between nation, state and country, and he will not be able to tell you, although these are as different as culture, government and territory. 'The purely economic perception of nationhood was perhaps inevitable in Canada and the United States because English-speaking North America lacks a feudal past. The Feudal Age in Europe was one of rigid social structure, where everyone knew his place within a religious framework, with the result that an overall, collective perception of society as an organic whole prevailed. It was the soil from which the nations of Europe grew. When 18th century liberalism, emphasising the individual, came into vogue, this organic perception was not lost. A synthesis between old and new emerged, exemplified in movements such as socialism that emphasise individual welfare within a social whole. Colonies such as those in Quebec and Latin America, which spun off from Europe before the liberal revolution, maintained the collective outlook, but colonies founded after that revolution, in the United States, Australia and English Canada, were peopled with liberal settlers who shrugged off the old organic view. Thus we see American nationalism identified with individual benefit, such as America being the champion of private enterprise and a repository of rights and freedoms for all people, so when the national origins policy in immigration was scrapped, Lyndon Johnson could proclaim that policy "un-American." In W.W.II the English, French, Germans and Japanese fought for England France, Germany and Japan, but the Americans fought for "freedom."

We are told by liberals that cultural diversity brought by the intermingling of many peoples brings richness to a country. That cultural innovations from around the world are an asset is not disputed, but it must be recognised that a mass intermingling of peoples is not necessary for such benefit to accrue. Historically, the introduction of Oriental advancements into medieval Europe was made by Europeans themselves, whether Crusaders, or travellers such as the Polos. The heavy presence of western influence in Japan does not require thousands of white faces in that nation. On the contrary, there is evidence from history that multiculturalism is destructive to great societies. No society could be more multicultural - or cosmopolitan as it was then called - than that of decadent Rome. Rome was the world government of its time, and in its streets were races and peoples from every part of its empire. Eventually a true Roman was hard to find. Reflecting upon the fate of the Roman Empire, it would be untruthful to say that multiculturalism was of any lasting benefit to that great world, and naive to promote it as an example to be emulated in the interest of future human progress.

Yet that is what the liberal asserts, while belittling the importance of race in history. the most cursory consideration of multiculturalism should suggest it is social disruptiveness, since where there is a mixture of cultures, there can be no sense of community, and without a sense of community - why clean the streets? How ironic that liberals claim to be 'progressive'! If diversity is beneficial, this ought to incline society against multiculturalism, for when people live side-by-side, next door to each other, history shows that over time they blend, producing uniformity, not diversity. But logic was never a strong point with multiculturalists.

Just as the money-makers subject rivers and land to the demands of business with little or no regard, and even less respect, for these physical aspects of a country's heritage, so is its racial base subject to the same irrelevance.

If the people of a nation are reduced to a raceless proletariat - so what?

Not only does the threat come from immigration, but also from public education; multiculturalism has become multicultural - a tacit credo expressed in media, school curricula and cinema that promotes interracialism, even miscegenation. As our countries become less white, we can realistically expect more anti-white discrimination. Make no mistake: Multiculturalism means the end of white nationhood.

The History of Banks

AN EXTRACT FROM THE HISTORY OF BANKS

When the crusaders first left their homelands in Europe for the crusade to the Holy Land, they took with them almost the entire circulating supply of gold and silver coins. This left Western nations, England in particular, with no money. In the year 1100AD Henry 1, fourth son of William the Conqueror, ascended the throne of England. Finding the treasury empty and his needs great, he cast about for a source of income. Having wise advisors he soon hit on a plan. His plan, with a few refinements, remained in effect for the next 726 years and can be reinstated tomorrow. He issued "TALLIES". A tally was a stick about nine inches or so long with each of the four sides about 1/2 inch wide. On two of the sides, the value of the tally was carved into the wood. On the other two sides, the amount was printed in ink.

The tally was then split in half length wise. One half remained in the treasury and the other half was given to soldiers for their pay, to farmers for wheat, to armourers for armour, and to labourers for their labour.

At tax time, taxpayers were required to bring in one half of a tally to pay their taxes. Woe unto the man who did not have the required number of tally sticks. As a consequence, these worthless sticks of wood were in great demand. Gold and Silver coins were fine if you travelled abroad for a crusade or something, but at home if you did not have your tax tally at tax time you were done.

Upon receipt of a tally the treasurer would immediately match the presented half with the half stored in the treasury. THEY HAD TO TALLY which is what gave it the name. Counterfeiters lost their heads! Actually it was practically impossible to counterfeit a tally. The wood grain had to match, the notches had to match, and the ink inscriptions had to match. This could only come about if both pieces came from the same tally.

There you have it an inexhaustible source of revenue for the government. The means were available to make tallies as long as there were trees. There was a demand as long as the government required the tallies for taxes. The system flourished as long as tax evaders and counterfeiters were punished, and they always were. For 726 years the system 'flourished'.

Government tally money and USURY money cannot exist side by side. Tally money makes usury money look bad because it stays constant, while usury money expands and contracts. The advent of usury money spelled the death of the tally. The process started in 1694 when the Bank of England was chartered. This new type of interest bank was permitted because of a promise made by the pretender to his financial backers before he became King, and before he had access to the privilege of issuing the potentially inexhaustible supply of wooden money. When the pretender became King, he kept his promise to his usurer bankers. The days of tally money were numbered.

At that time there were about 14 million pounds in tally money in circulation. In 1697 when the capital of the Bank of England was increased, 160,000 pounds of this new money was paid for with tally sticks. The irritation of having usury money and tally money circulating at the same time ended when Parliament abolished the use of tallies for taxes in 1783. Circulation of tallies continued in the back country of England until 1826. In 1834 the treasury tallies were burned by allies of the Bank of England. The furnaces which heated the House of Lords were used. The fire blazed up and burned down both houses of Parliament.

The tally sticks were a wonderful invention. They were freely accepted in England. The King of England, however had to have gold and silver to do business in France. A Frenchman or Italian wasn't thinking about taking an English wooden tally in exchange for his goods. They required hard money, the very thing that had left the country to pay for the crusades. The frugal Englishman who owned precious coins kept them. In an attempt to solve this problem, King William (Rufus) in 1087 opened the doors of England to JEWS under the condition that they lend at interest, a thing forbidden to native Christians, and that further, the King get half the profit. Every effort was to be made to obtain the needed gold and silver in payment for loans instead of wooden tallies. The Jews became the king's valued unofficial tax collectors. As fast as their usury brought a debtor into bankruptcy, the king got his share.

Other conditions found their way into the relationship between the king and the Jews. Whenever a Jew was converted or died, his estate escheated to the king. The Jews could only live in the town which contained an Archer and an office in which every transaction with the Christians was recorded for government agents to make sure the king got his cut. In practice this worked the same way as it had in every other country. Ten pounds lent at 20% would require repayment of 20 pounds in a little more than four years. If the loan were due in tallies, there was some slight chance that it would be paid. If it were due in gold or silver, there was virtually no chance that the loan would be paid since almost all gold and silver had vanished from England. The debtor lost all. The Jews were estimated to have owned one fourth of England.

To summarise, without alien interference England created for herself a fare monetary system. With the arrival of Jews they introduced usury and created banks with excessive interest, destroying English families. The Jews' greed caused there deportation backed by the native English, the church and the Government. (the ruling has never been reversed.) Loyal Templar Knights created honest banking with no usury or interest and because of this envious Jews destroyed them. It was seen that without usury the west was set free to create, explore and breath. A more in-depth look at the creation of money and usury can be found in the book "Which Way Western Man" available from Second Chance Sales.

OUR READERS SAY

I hope that the "Raven" is right and I am wrong (Broadsword N014). Apart from openly NS, no other nationalist party shows any interest in challenging the "government" (I call it junta) on the legality of Parliament with so many illegal alien Jews as sitting members.

According to the Privy Council, the Edict of Expulsion, passed by King Edward I, (expulsion of Jews) is still legal law and it never had a date of expiry, nor has it ever been revoked. No wonder that the "government" is seeking to revoke this edict. It would prove that England has been ruled by criminals, traitors and philo-Semites since Cromwell butchered England's last loyal monarch.

Since what passes for English these days shows no race-pride or guts, I think the English, when the collapse in business comes, will just lie down, curl-up and whimper, while the 'ethnic minorities' take their women and ship them all over the world as booty.

I've just been forced to sign a voters register (or else). The ballot box is useless. The refugees are streaming into nearby Dover and their MP is PROSSER. (Not listed in a book of British surnames) It's safe to assume he is one of the Chosen, what do you think?

A JEWISH CONSPIRACY

A member of a powerful Jewish Banking family, James Warburg, defiantly declared to the American Congress some time ago, "We shall have World Government whether or not you like it. The only question is whether it will be achieved by conquest or consent". While at a secret meeting of European Rabbis held in Budapest, Hungary in 1952, the plan to destroy the Celtic-Anglo-Saxon-Nordic-Germanic race was openly revealed "MIXING THE DARK WITH THE WHITE MEANS AN END TO THE WHITE-MAN AND OUR MOST DANGEROUS ENEMY WILL BECOME ONLY A MEMORY". Leaked and translated from Yiddish into English by Henry Klein who was later murdered. Printed in the periodical, Canadian Intelligence Service, Sept. 1952 and in the American publication Common Sense. "The World is ruled by Zionism, the U.N. is the symbol of its authority. It is the super-Government outlined in the Protocols. It is totalitarianism and slavery." "A great Jew conspiracy based on the dream for Messianic world power" and that "political Zionism is the instrument for its fulfilment" as explained by Waldo Frank in the Feb. 1944 issue of the Contemporary Jewish Record. "Zionist leaders stop at nothing to attain their ends. No newspaper is free from Zionist control. Every large radio and TV chain is under control. Every system of education and religion is under control. Zionism controls Capitalism and Communism. Zionism is treason. It is a programme for the political conquest of the world"

CCTV - THE WATCHING EYE IN YOUR STREET.

The "Day of the Police State" is here in Britain in 1998. Forget about the "Big Brother" predictions of George Orwell in his book 1984, the east London borough of Newham is pioneering the technology of public surveillance with a new twist. In the modern, democratic, multi-cultural society which has taken over Britain the Government and its apparatus of control is constantly looking for new ways to force the population to conform and be controlled. The British public is already watched by security cameras in town and city centres, on the motorways, major road junctions, railway stations and shopping centres, but Newham has added a new twist to close circuit TV operations; cameras which can identify individuals in a crowd by computer matching.

The new CCTV surveillance system on trial in Newham operates via a computer file of facial images held on a computer database by the Metropolitan Police. When the remote controlled cameras match a face out in the street or wherever, an alarm sounds in the monitor control room and alerts the security operators as the cameras continue to track the target person or persons. A telephone hotline connected to the "Mandrake" program can quickly despatch police units to the exact location of the identified target. The computer controlled system is more efficient than existing systems which rely on teams of human operators sifting in front of dozens of screens trying to spot faces they may recognise. The "Mandrake" program leaves all that to the computers.

The Newham operation was fully approved by all sixty Labour Party councillors on Newham Council, the civil liberty aspects of the operation being overruled. The council's security centre now operates a dozen mobile camera units and 140 fixed CCTV units; there are plans to fit the system across all the borough's public spaces and transit points, underground stations, car parks, subways and underpasses.

The Metropolitan Police are keen to see the Newham experiment succeed on so-called crime control criteria, but the social control element is extremely sinister. Political activists, especially National Socialist and British Nationalist activists can only guess at what kind of use Special Branch and the Intelligence agencies will make of this new CCTV system. All with the approval of the Labour Government of course.

The Watcher.

"The leading part in the history of the world has been, and is still, played by the Aryan nations. The Caucasian presents us with the highest type among the five families of man: Aryan branch of the Caucasian family presents us with the noblest pattern of that highest type. It is the Aryans that have reached the highest point of intellectual development, as shown in their political freedom, and in their science, literature and art." Henry W. Ruoff, 'Book of Races and Peoples', The Circle of Knowledge - 1916.

"The testimony of History, and the results of philanthropic experiment, are the data upon which the ethnologist must institute his inquiries, if he would arrive at conclusions instructive to humanity. Let us take for illustration the White and the Black races, supposed by many to represent the two extremes of the scale of gradation. The whole history of the former shows an uninterrupted progress; that of the latter, monotonous stagnation. To the one, mankind owes the most valuable discoveries in the domain of thought, and their practical application; to the other, it owes nothing..."

The main topic by thinking people world wide is the environment, which also combines the survival of animals, natural resources, immigration and survival in the western world of our children and our children's children. Unfortunately the world is governed by people who are 100% Capitalists, who's only motivation in life is to get ever richer and more powerful. People, animals, the land or the sea, are only there to be exploited.

Then we have the second tier: the politicians, the powerful civil servants and their armies of serfs, who will carry out any order by their masters - irrespective if it harms their native land and the indigenous people who reside here.

The third tier is the media, be it left wing, Liberal or supposedly Conservative. All again work for their all powerful pay masters. All appear regularly on charity appeals, A.I.D.S., Save the Planet, a variety of animals, the refugees, the homeless - their appeals are endless.

But take a close look at these media frauds, two sometimes three, to tell you the same news story. Many are millionaires several times over. All are madly in love with their own image, and worst of all we, the suffering Joe public, have no choice. The majority have more than one home, several cars and nice expense accounts, again down to the tax payer. It is obvious with them, 'charity begins at home, or how do they manage to accumulate so much wealth.

And last but not least, is our armies of middle class clowns, our Eco-warriors. When they have a Demo to save a Dandelion, the whole might of the media is out to record every minute and every word, Why? We, the White Nationalists, the indigenous people of this land, are ignored. Yet we love our country and race more than the whole lot of these people combined together.

Ask them all a few simple questions:

Is our country overpopulated? Do you think we should allow any more immigrants and refugees into our country? Do immigrants have larger families than our indigenous people, and should we at least deport or repatriate people who are known criminals living off the state?

How can they protect the country if they refuse to give an honest answer to the above questions. Besides the problem of over crowding, the major problem in coming years will be the lack of water, both in this country and world wide.

Scotland, Ireland, Wales and the North of England are the only areas at present that have ample supplies. Yet Wales had a water shortage due to the millions of gallons pumped out to the Midlands of England. Surely a warning, but it is ignored by our masters.

A civil war will begin in Britain as our natural resources are used up. But will our Eco-warriors support? The immigrants will work within their circles. The rich will exploit us all and Scots and Irish Nationalists will be in a position to exploit the situation. We must stay strong and collect peoples around us who have the vision and courage to come forward when all hell breaks loose. We, too, can become Eco-warriors, but ours is by education in our own ranks.

This will not be a Race War, but the beginning of the end for us all, so prepare for survival now. Join the Territorial Army, or any survival group and pass the knowledge on to your family and comrades.

It is easy to be fooled by that which is false.
It is easy for a fool to deny that which is not.

Around 2600 years ago this was meant to have been said:

Do not believe in what you have heard.

Do not believe in traditions because they have been handed down for many generations.

Do not believe in anything merely because the written statements of some old sage are produced.

Do not believe in conjectures.

Do not believe in that, as a truth, to which you may have become attached by habit.

Do not believe merely on the authority of your teachers and elders.

After observation and analysis, when it agrees with reason, and is conducive to the good and benefit of one and all, then accept it and live up to it.

By "Naxos"

Resistance begins by watching where you spend your money, how you entertain yourself and your family. By asking yourself questions like; who profits when you shop?

Are you a true National Socialist? Do you live your life by your beliefs, by your ideology? Or are you a bar room Nationalist sorting out the Nation over a pint on a Saturday lunchtime before the match? An arm chair fascist who talks a good fight but buys his beer and fags from an Asian owned mini-market, and newspapers from an Asian corner shop?

How can any true National Socialist or British Nationalist talk about pride in their Race and Nation, talk about stopping immigration and repatriating all non-Whites from Britain, and then go out and give their money to non-British shop-keepers?

How can they oppose these people being here, only to help build their profits and give them a reason to stay here? The more successful are their businesses, the more they will want to stay in Britain and the harder they will entrench their communities here.

In the 1997 General Election both the Labour Party and the Conservative Party went out of their way to woo wealthy Asian business men for donations and support.

How many high street shops are now owned by Asian millionaires?

Do you know? Do you spend your money there? What political causes do they support? You can be certain that the Asians who are selling down their economic, social and political roots in this country will fight tooth and nail to prevent a National Socialist revolution in Britain. So no one who truly believes in a White National Renaissance should ever support their business profits with a single penny.

Look at a longer established immigrant/refugee community in Britain. The majority of British Jews are descended from those who came into the UK between 1875 and 1910. Look at how their community has established itself, the Asians, Afro-Caribbeans and Third Worlders are following the same pattern.

The Jewish Chronicle regularly publishes articles about how successful Jewish businessmen are; how wealthy they have become; how much the Jewish community contributes to mainstream political parties; how many Jewish businesses contribute to fighting the efforts of National Socialist and British Nationalist political organisations. Those donations come from the profits of successful Jewish owned businesses and companies.

Think about where you shop, who is gaining at your expense? Are you as a National Socialist or British Nationalist contributing to the funds of those who oppose you?

Do you just talk a good fight or do you live by your ideology?

The NS.- Shopper.

RURAL REMINISCING.

After reading "Obituary for a Small Town" in 'Broadsword' number 14, I was struck down with a case of Deja Vu. I began reflecting on my early years being brought up in a small village in north west Kent.

Although only young at the time, I remember those years with remarkable clarity. My father had bought a two hundred year old cottage attached to an old Coach House and Stables; the main road through the village being part of the London to Dover road.

What strikes me most about these memories is the sense of community (a wholly white community) which always seemed to fill the air.

I used to call into the village store each day with my mother and play in the back room while my mother chatted with the local women and storekeeper in the front.

I remember strolling to the village school-house over the river Darent (which has been deprived of much of its wildlife after being drained one year by a certain water company) past the milking yards where there was a giant bull named 'Spaceman', who towered above me at the time. I remember the church bells on a Sunday and going to Sunday school. I remember going to pick Blackberries in a nearby woodland with an elderly neighbour who used to tell me of her deceased husband who used to paint local village scenes in oils. A man quite renowned to local art collectors according to a recent report in the local paper!

I remember the farms and nurseries, the local historic sights, Roman fortresses and villas, and an ancient Saxon burial ground. I remember the deep sense of belonging which is derived from all true rooted folk communities.

Unfortunately, I am also reminded, when I remember those days, that the storekeeper in his eighties died of a heart attack after a violent robbery on his store only a few years back.

I am reminded that the old school-house has been destroyed to make way for a rather ugly, modern comprehensive school. I am reminded that the farmyard where I used to visit my friend, 'Spaceman' has now been renovated into quaint bedsits for London Yuppies. I am reminded of the Indian restaurant which is now housed in the village and the Asian owned Post Office. But most of all, I am reminded that a lack of community spirit pervades the air, and in its place a sense of materialistic self-seeking prevails.

Gone is that truly white folk community that existed only twenty six years ago. A community which I truly miss.

Sometimes I visit that village and surrounding villages and speak to some of the local old folk in the pub, or the church yard - those who's families have lived and worked on the land for generations.

I sense their loss too. I ask you: is this the end of an era? Is this the end of the true folk community which is to be replaced by crass materialistic, soulless, rootless communities?

I can't help thinking that if our people do not arise and take action now, and in the near future, then it very well may be!

By Varin.

Although I no longer live in my place of birth, I was born and bred in a rural village called Slaithwaite - called Slawit by the locals. It was otherwise considered a small textile town in the north of England. Slawit was a thriving place for work, with over twenty mills, and up to a hundred mills throughout the Valley.

The village was but one of a number of mill towns/villages situated in the Colne Valley, with the river Colne running through. The Valley is but one of a number of valleys that are bound within the district of Huddersfield, which is one of a number of major towns in the Yorkshire hills called the Pennines.

Along with all the other village towns in all the valleys, Slawit has slowly died. Many mills have gone taking with them the closely integrated communities, and not only the livelihoods of the workers of the mills, but all the other businesses that relied upon the major industries of rural valleys. Bustling train stations decommissioned, no longer do the locomotives come and go with the goods. What was once a complex of shops are now but few, dominated by the out of town hypermarkets.

The last village Carnival marched it's procession many years ago when I was but a boy myself. Every year without fail, the brass band would strike up one Saturday afternoon in the summer and march out of the Bandroom car park, followed by the Majorettes twirling their batons and the fancy adorned lorries with people in fancy dress riding the floats.

As the procession made its way around the main route, the locals would latch on behind, and enjoy the fanfare of all the traditional tunes that were a part of their culture and heritage. The parade would finish back at the Bandroom where all would congregate to participate in the afternoon fete.

Those days are truly gone, and the only Carnivals to be heard are the high funded Afro-Caribbean parades through the streets of all the major towns. A culture far from its origin, and it is because of such Cuckoo cultures that I became extremely opposed to multiculturalism, and one of the many reasons why I became a National Socialist.

BRITISH MOVEMENT - 1968 TO 1998 - THIRTY YEARS OF THE MOVEMENT

British Movement was founded in the Summer of 1968 and has now had a place on the British political map for thirty years. The continued existence of British Movement and its recognised place in both the British Nationalist stage and on the international National Socialist scene is a tribute to the years of campaigning and determination by the Movement's activists. It is the refusal to lie down and die which has kept the British National Socialist Movement going when our attackers on both the Left and the Right have repeatedly written the British Movement off with early obituaries, only to see BM struggle back to its feet again, bloodied but defiant!

In spite of the best efforts by our enemies and in the face of overwhelming odds, British Movement has survived and continues to uphold the Sunwheel banner of British National Socialism and push forward the advancement of National Socialism into the 21st Century. Constantly dogged by limited resources and always short of funds our hardcore campaigners and supporters live the National Socialist reality of constant struggle.....there can be no rest until the day dawns.....The Day.....of Final National Socialist Victory.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear friend,

Thank you very much for issue No 13 of Broadsword and for the sample of BM stickers you sent me.

The BM has moved up a gear with Broadsword. It's good to see some of the smaller Pro-White groups like the British Movement getting better.

Our best hope of keeping our White Blood pure lies in Europe with the FN.

Austin.

To the BM,

Thank you for your last letter and leaflets, they went down a treat in Croydon...in Croydon you have Marxism posters in the south and Islamic posters/stickers in the west.

As you can see which incites hatred in anyone who is not a Muslim.

Invitations To Embrace Islam Have Been Sent To The Queen, The Prime Minister & MPs

Dear Sir,

I have just had the great pleasure of reading issue 13 and 14 of Broadsword. What an excellent magazine, a periodical voicing and championing the opinions of the Aryan race. There is only one system that has the courage to put this country on the right course and save us all from the madness of multi-culturalism, which is actually a cancer which is killing Britain, the country of my forefathers and the country I love. That system is National Socialism.

The old, tired parties will sell us down the river to attract immigrant votes - traitors the lot of them.

I strongly believe that this country desperately needs a National Socialist voice that is prepared to fight for the rights of Britain's Aryan people and that voice is the British Movement. That is why I now apply for membership of the Movement and play my part in creating a truly National Socialist system in our beautiful land.

I look forward to meeting other National Socialists and playing my part in creating a National Socialist state which will create a truly British Britain and an ending to the nightmare of multi racialism and multi-culturalism which is really a cancerous tumour that is eating up the whole British way of life and bastardising our heritage.

Yours in the great fight for a racially pure Britain.

J.E. of Lancashire.

Hello there,

Please write and send me details about the B.M., I'm very, very patriotic and extremely pissed-off with the Zionists who are running the world.

I have two beautiful White kids, and it sickens me that they come home from school knowing more about Asian cultures than European cultures.

In 1995, my boyfriend was stabbed in Coventry City Centre because he was White. I was charged with assault for defending myself against a cross-breed - she claimed racism - so did I, but to no avail. The difference is, I was racially attacked. I was fined £150.00.

I could go on and on, but I dare say you've heard it all before. Please write soon,

F.R.A.N Marie.

Dear Broadsword,

I would just like to thank all the proud National Socialists, lads and lasses, who attended my father's funeral on the 27th November 1998. I would also like to thank the Raven for taking the service, a job well done. Last but not least, thanks to our folk down south for their wreath and support.

Jon Paul.
